

Internship at CLix

About CLix

The Connected Learning Initiative (CLix) is a bold and innovative effort to improve the professional and academic prospects of high school's students from underserved communities in India. CLix incorporates thoughtful pedagogical design and leverages contemporary technology, including online capabilities, to provide quality educational content and experiences at scale. The current focus is on mathematics, science, communicative English, digital literacy and values, for high school students and teacher professional development in these areas for teachers. The initiative aims to reach a total of approximately 1,100 schools and 165,000 students in 4 states during 2015–2018, as well as conduct professional development for approximately 4500 teachers. CLix is led by the Tata Institute for Social Sciences (TISS), the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and the Tata Trusts. For more information, please visit <https://clix.tiss.edu/>
